Co-creating Evolution Through Action

Stephen Dynako is a born communicator. From his earliest memories of playing television meteorologist through his professional experiences in the media to his current work as SupraAmbassador of the Social Chrysalis education platform, the common thread of Stephen's genius is producing and delivering compelling content.

Across the media landscape Stephen has been a writer, broadcaster, producer, publisher, and graphic designer. Beginning in the late 1980s, as media production intersected with the advent of personal computing then with the internet a decade later, Stephen's career surfed the same trajectory, as he integrated his talent with technology. As a technologist, Stephen conceived and developed an early version of an online training system.

In the realm of spirituality and service, Stephen has been a regular Sunday speaker at Unity churches in the greater Chicago and NW Indiana area. He has served as a Unity lay chaplain, plus he interned as a hospital chaplain at Rush University Medical Center in Chicago.

Stephen serves as the SupraAmbassador of Social Chrysalis, an online educational platform that offers the wisdom, knowledge, tools and resources for others to actively contribute to positive conscious evolution.

Stephen's vocation is further enhanced by his progressive and diverse corporate experience to advocate for eco-conscious business. He has worked in both corporate and entrepreneurial environments for over 30 years, including leadership positions in the corporate communications, technology, and banking industries. Stephen served as program director of the Conscious Business Innerprise training and certification program, offered by Humanity's Team, plus he was a co-producer of the Conscious Business World Summit in March of 2019.

The legendary futurist Barbara Marx Hubbard conducted the final program of her earthly life in partnership with Stephen in 2019. Since her transition, Stephen has been regarded as one of Barbara's final co-creators. Through his varied professional experiences in business, ministry, and as an author and educator, Stephen believes that humanity is now ready to get radical about making Love our priority. His work is fully devoted to making conscious evolution a mainstream practice.

Stephen Dynako is a dynamic advocate for the social potential movement and conscious evolution. He passionately believes that it's time for us to consciously choose what we can become in the future—based on advancements in science, medicine, IT, psychology, sociology and spirituality—and bring it into our work and livelihood. Doing so can create social change at large.

On Becoming the New Human

Stephen delivers future-thinking and thought-provoking messages aimed at inspiring action towards actualizing their creative potential in their work and accelerating one's personal evolutionary power. These are attributes of the consciously-evolving human, one who sees that crisis presents opportunity for social transformation. This "new human" takes the generative aspects of competition and blends them with eco-conscious principles of cooperation. The "new human" was regarded as the evolution of homo sapiens to homo universalis by Barbara Marx Hubbard and - in Integral Theory - is referred to as a second-tier human.

Genius Coaching

Barbara Marx Hubbard clearly saw the co-creation of endeavors from the highest level. Where she was a master at articulating the synergistic dynamics of the resources and genius needed to manifest a vision, she fully trusted me with organizing, implementing, communicating, and co-facilitating what we developed. Her radical trust in me and in my genius affirmed how I have always shown up in my creative work and is the basis for my own coaching practice.

Genius Coaching is based on my absolute trust in each client to see and bring out the fullness of her or his talents, gifts, and strengths, in much the same way Barbara saw and trusted me. It is an evolutionary approach that:

- 1) Follows the flow of the energy between client and coach
- 2) Is deeply informed by intuition
- 3) Invites both client and coach to look outside and beyond current paradigms and norms for innovative answers and direction

In Genius Coaching, I help clients with the following:

- Affirmation of your inherent talent and gift (i.e., genius) and building the faith to trust it
- Gaining clarity of your purpose
- Getting specific on your mission and identifying the functional steps to fulfill it
- Tapping your inner strengths
- Clearing any blocks you have towards progress
- Building your courage to take practical and the most effective action

Talking Points

What is the social potential movement?

A generation ago, the Human Potential movement emerged to support people in their self-actualization. In this generation, the Social Potential movement is emerging to support groups of self-actualizing people to come together and actively build the systems to evolve humanity.

What is conscious evolution?

In the wake of the atomic bombings of Japan in 1945, American futurist and visionary Barbara Marx Hubbard (then in her early 20s) had the prescience to ask President Eisenhower the question:

“What is the meaning of all our newfound technological power that is good?” She spent the next 70 years answering that question for generations of world citizens. Her life purpose was to enlighten humanity in the principles and practical action steps of conscious evolution.

What is the Wheel of Co-Creation?

The Wheel is a matrix of the ever-evolving social body. In conscious evolution, we are called to ACTION to transform our social body as an expression and actualization of our own potentiality. The aspects of society are symbolized as sectors, representing vital functions of the social body such as Health, Education, Economics, Environment, Governance, Arts and Media, and more.

What is the Evolutionary Ambassador's Academy?

The Academy is based around the principles of the Wheel of Co-Creation, the brainchild of legendary futurist Barbara Marx Hubbard. Barbara and Stephen Dynako prepared the Academy's Ambassadors to boldly apply the principles of conscious evolution in a most practical way through their purposeful work, as directed by their own evolutionary impulses.

Who is Barbara Marx Hubbard?

Barbara Marx Hubbard [1929 – 2019] was a beloved American futurist, spiritual leader, author and lecturer, affectionately known as “the grandmother of conscious evolution.” As far back as the 1940s, she portended that the human race was on the brink of an enhanced way of existing that involved a higher level of cooperation and enlightenment. Nominated for the vice presidency in 1984 and a sought-after speaker around the globe, Barbara believed that conscious evolution is a choice. She is the subject of the recent documentary, “American Visionary.”

What is Social Chrysalis?

Social Chrysalis is an online educational platform, founded by Stephen Dynako, that offers the wisdom, knowledge, tools and resources to support others in actively contributing to positive conscious evolution.
